Objective of the Workshop

The past few years have been characterized by rapid changes in Internet Technologies and the introduction of corporate and retail banking services through the Internet. The unprecedented speed with which new technologies are being adopted, the ubiquitous and global nature of electronic networks, the integration of e-banking platforms with legacy systems and the increasing dependence of banks on third-party information service providers all dramatically amplify the magnitude of cybersecurity risks to which banks/organizations/Industries are exposed.

The aim of the workshop is to bring together Researchers, Scientists, Engineers, and Faculty members from different parts of the country and provide an understanding to effectively implement the information security vision and strategy for any organization. For the attendees, this five-day workshop will be a platform for enriching the flavor of cybersecurity risks on the Internet/Cloud/IoT etc.
