TIIC Sponsored 1-Day Workshop on “Crafting Innovative Startups from Research Excellence”

About Workshop: The 1-Day Workshop on “Crafting Innovative Startups from Research Excellence” aims to bridge the gap between academic research and entrepreneurial ventures. In today’s dynamic innovation ecosystem, researchers and academicians possess immense potential to drive real-world impact through startups. This workshop is designed to explore pathways for translating research outcomes into viable startups, highlight success stories, and provide practical insights into the startup ecosystem. Through interactive sessions, expert talks, and experience sharing, the event seeks to motivate faculty members, researchers, and Ph.D. scholars to consider entrepreneurship as a natural extension of their research careers. Discussions will cover ideation, innovation, incubation, funding opportunities, and navigating the startup journey from an academic environment. The workshop serves as a platform to inspire a new wave of research-driven entrepreneurship, enabling participants to transform their innovations into impactful solutions for society and the economy.
